“The theory of independence is as old as man himself, . . .”

By: Mike Denham

As we ready to celebrate the Fourth of July on Saturday, it’s worth remembering the words President Kennedy spoke at Philadelphia’s Independence Hall a little more than five decades ago.

“The theory of independence is as old as man himself, and it was not invented in this hall,” he said, “but it was in this hall that that the theory became a practice; that the word went out to all, in Thomas Jefferson’s phrase, that ‘the God who gave us life, gave us liberty at the same time.’”

While a lot has obviously changed since the Declaration of Independence was signed 239 years ago this week, I think our Founding Fathers would still feel right at home during the holiday’s traditional festivities. They also would recognize that the challenges we face now as a nation may be different, but that what we seek to protect and promote – freedom, both here and abroad – has not changed.

It’s worth noting that Kentucky has several major ties to that long-ago era, even though we were still not yet a state. Lexington, for example, is believed to be the second community outside of the 13 original colonies to celebrate the signing of the Declaration of Independence. That event came just a day after the first in Marietta, Ohio, in 1788.

Kentucky actually was home to that timeless document for several years, when federal officials decided during World War II that Fort Knox would be a much safer place to keep it temporarily.

The Battle of Blue Licks in what is now Robertson County, meanwhile, is considered by many to be the Revolutionary War’s last skirmish. Although it did not affect the war’s outcome, its casualties did include Daniel Boone’s son Israel.

A little more than a year ago, the Kentucky Historical Society unveiled a marker commemorating Daniel Morgan, a brigadier general who was one of the Revolutionary War’s top leaders. Morgan County is named after him, as is Morganfield in Union County and Morgantown in Butler County.

His son-in-law, Presley O’Bannon, also played a major role in American history as the first soldier to raise our country’s flag over foreign soil during a time of war.

NOTICE

In observance of the Fourth of July, the office of The Bracken County News will be closed on Friday, July 3rd. Office will reopen at 9 a.m. Monday. Deadline remains at 5 p.m. on Monday, July 6th.

That effort is remembered today in the second half of the opening line of the Marines’ Hymn: “From the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli.”

In celebrating our nation’s founding, it’s crucial that we also honor those who have protected it in the two-plus centuries that followed. More than 40 million men and women have served since we declared our independence, and estimates indicate there are well over two million today who are on active duty or in the Reserves or the National Guard. Hundreds of thousands more provide support as civilians.

As it always has, Kentucky plays an outsized role when it comes to our nation’s defense, with Fort Knox and Fort Campbell leading the way. We are among the top 10 states in total military personnel.

My hope is that you and your family have a wonderful holiday weekend, and I encourage you to take part in numerous Fourth of July events being planned by our communities and state parks.

These gatherings remind us not just of the contributions of such historical figures as Washington, Jefferson and Adams, but also the sacrifices many others have made on our behalf. Together, they provided the foundation for the way of life we enjoy today. It is difficult to imagine what the world would look like without them.

Taylor returns to Viet Nam after 48 years

Note: This was a feature story in The Wet Mountain Tribune, Courtesy of Wayne Ewing, Reporter, The Wet Mountain Tribune

As has often been noted in these pages, our community is blessed with many folks who quietly go about their service in the world, making it a better place to live today than yesterday. Westcliffe resident Ron Taylor is one of those people.

Recently returned from a 12 day trip to Viet Nam in March, Taylor, US Marine Corps veteran and current chaplain licensed with Burning Bush Ministries, has had an "indescribable" experience which he says he will "probably be processing for the rest of the year."

How and why he travelled there is an adventure in faith, compassion, and his willingness to be lead where there is need.

After returning to Westcliffe some years ago "without a clue" as to where his life might be headed, Taylor entered what was then a martial arts office co-housed with a branch of the Dave Roe-ver Foundation programs for returning combat veterans. As a black belt karate instructor, veteran, and chaplain, Taylor was simply curious about this odd combination. How often does one see a quote from the Hebrew scripture prophet Isaiah in the window of a martial arts school, along with veterans services?

Little did Taylor know that he would be lead from that encounter into a leadership role with a ministry to combat veterans that would come to engage his own return to Viet Nam after 48 years.

In 2012 a Roe-ver Foundation event too large to be hosted at their Eagle Summit Ranch facility off Bear Basin and Boneyard Park roads northeast of town, gathered instead at Horn Creek Ranch. Taylor had been asked to serve as a chaplain and pre-sender for the five day event. The first Viet Nam veteran to have gone through these reconnecting experiences, Taylor for the first time heard "Welcome Home!" at the graduation exercises concluding the program.

Since then Taylor has gone on to present in these Roe-ver Foundation programs throughout California, Texas, and Colorado. As he engaged further with returning veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan, he became even more deeply involved with concerns for returned Viet Nam veterans. "When we returned from Viet Nam," Taylor notes, "there simply were no programs of re-introduction to life here." He recalls his own all-too-typical experience in 1969, when attending a basketball game in his Kentucky home town. A group of young adults he had grown up with called down from the stands, "Hey Taylor! How many babies did you kill?" That was his chilling welcome home event.

Continuing conversations with Dave Roe-ver resulted in Taylor's being asked to become co-director of the Viet Nam outreach programs for the Foundation's far flung and expanding ministries. Taylor responded "Yes!" quickly followed by "How?"

His co-director is Rupert Harrell, a former staff member with, and continuing friend of, the Roe-ver Foundation. Harrell is himself a Viet Nam veteran, shot down four times as a crew chief during his combat tenure there, and the holder of two Purple Hearts and a Bronze Star. The "Welcome Home" events they provide for Viet Nam veterans include return visits to the country where they fought and were wounded psychologically and physically. The March trip was Harrell's 45th return to Viet Nam, and Taylor's first.

"When I got off the plane that night in Da Nang, I reflected on my having arrived there in the daylight 48 years earlier." This time escorted to a hotel with all modern conveniences and a very comfortable bed, nearly a half century ago Taylor deplaned under a jungle canopy, entering into his deployment passing weary and battle scarred soldiers on their way home. Later, he spent a night in Da Nang in flak jacket and helmet, covered with mosquito netting, levelling his M-14 into hostile territory.

Taylor acknowledges that he was "apprehensive" about returning to Viet Nam, even though he has undergone considerable healing over the years since his military service. An odd, or even graceful moment of his trip was the realization that his arrival date, March 11, coincided exactly with the day in 2002 when he surrendered himself to "whatever God had in store for me." The trip went up from there. In Hanoi, for example, he and another of the returning veterans had a chance encounter with a former Viet Nam Army trooper who reminded them that "We fought each other--for what? Now we fight together for another cause," the compassionate healing of profound spiritual wounds and painful memories.

"The newer generations there," Taylor says, "have a different perception of the war and its turmoil. We were welcomed, even thanked for the things we are now able to do." That includes the establishment of hospitals and schools, and the training of pastors and church workers throughout Viet Nam.

"Of course the same is true now in this country," Taylor added. "There is more respect for the military, and for veterans from the Viet Nam era." He is modest about his own healing part in this turn of events, yet it is clear that ministries such as his own shared service have contributed to the changed sensitivities across American culture.

Details of the specific ministries in which Taylor is engaged are available at www.rupharrellministries.org and at <http://roeverfoundation.org> And of course if you're fortunate enough as this reporter to catch Taylor between events, you can learn from him yourself of these quiet, life changing services. "My joy comes when the miracles happen," Taylor concluded, noting how combat veterans young and old find faith and new peace in their lives through these retreat events.

Thoughts and Meditations from the Scriptures

ENVY IS A BITTER ROOT

Perhaps nothing tears at the social fabric like envy. Comparing ourselves to others will invariably make us feel either arrogant and superior or bitter and inferior. When we compare favorably to others we're likely to feel superior and therefore risk being arrogant, while comparing unfavorably to others is likely to make us bitter and feel dejected. Life is not a contest, and while it is only normal to want to know how we did on the test relative to other students, or how much we earn relative to our colleagues, invariably we are not going to be at the top of every list, or perhaps even at the top of any list. Most of us are going to be bunched up around the middle, and that's okay. Envy is not only a root of bitterness at work and in school, but often also within families. Sibling rivalry is natural, and competition can be a good thing, but many families have lasting scars from sibling rivalry that was taken too far, and envious feelings often outlast childhood. So put a check on your envy by avoiding unhealthy comparisons. You're fine just the way you are. - Christopher Simon

For you created my inmost being; you knit me together in my mother's womb. I praise you because I am fearfully and wonderfully made; your works are wonderful, I know that full well. - Psalm 139:13-14

What a beautiful Sun., June 28 with fluffy white marshmallow clouds...not made by man, but by God.

We had 58 to SS and Ron brought our lesson on "Walking on Water". Matthew 14:22-33.

The church mouse made another mistake last week. For the youngest father with the youngest baby - it was Marilyn Jefferson's son Jamie that won. Appreciation to Marilyn and Barb Jefferson for their understanding.

Jane Nelson played "Turn Your Eyes Upon Jesus" and "I'll Fly Away". WOW!

We had 93 to worship service. Bro. Jackie's message was "Jesus Finds Great Faith In A Soldier". Luke 7:1-10.

Remember in prayer: Betty McElfresh (back in the hospital for an infection), Ruby Highfield (back), little Jack Shepherd (leukemia), Rick & Kathy Linville, Dale Colemire, Hank Colemire, Bev Wells, Bill Tuel, Gary Norris (bypass surgery), Verna Lange, Kathy England (pneumonia), Chasity Shepherd (test), Carol Hopkins (broken leg & doing rehab since surgery), always remember each other. Keep our country and leaders in prayer.

Remember the families of Kevin Hamilton, Bonnie Ruf, Blake Sauer, and the Houser family. May God comfort and give you strength.

We had 106 to our picnic and what a wonderful time of Christian fellowship! Satisfied were just great and so was Homer Burton. Jane Nelson had the keyboard dancing with favorite hymns. An absolutely beautiful day with beautiful people.

Have a save and Happy Fourth of July. May America bless God!

Just keep that little light shining...now more than ever for Jesus!

OAKLAND CHRISTIAN by Barbara Browning

With our Revival Outreach coming at the end of July, Bro. Jim spoke on "Going on a Fishing Trip", which encouraged us to "fish" where the people are, and be compelled to do so. Our Revival is July 27-30 at the Griffin Centre in Falmouth. (More info to come).

Go to Falmouth Friday night to support the Fairview Christian Church team who is going to Haiti this month. It's Buffet Night at Edwardo's which helps raise money for this team.

Our Choir will be singing at 3:00, July 4th in Falmouth on the Shelby Street stage. Choir will be presenting its musical Sunday morning during the worship service also.

July 8 finds our Oakland Christian Workers meeting at the lodge at Blue Licks. Come join them.

"Survivor Sunday" is July 12, as we will recognize our cancer survivors in the morning worship.

Church Board meeting is July 14, 6:30 p.m.

Our sympathy goes to loved ones of Kevin Hamilton and Blake Sauer. Other prayer concerns include Tom and Jonathon Goshorn, Chanis Cox, Zelma King, Pearlie Wright, Terry Bay, Paige Figgins (2), Gary Norris, Susie England, Benny Bruin, Laural Jane Gray, Avery Goshorn, Kenny Jett, Greg Sandy, Jack Shepherd, Dickie Rees, Margie Logan, cancer concerns, armed forces, shut-ins, and our leaders.

GREETINGS FROM ST. JAMES

by Caroline Jefferson

Our sincerest sympathy is extended to Wayne and Mary Hamilton family as they mourn the death of their son, Kevin, affectionately known as Kemo. He lost his battle with cancer as have so many in our Bracken County community, but he, along with his fellow comrades, has won the war and is enjoying their eternal heavenly home! May God's loving arms surround and comfort all with His peace!

Pope Francis recently released his encyclical on Care For Our Common Home, namely the earth with its many elements of air, water, soil, plants, animals and humans. God created this world for ALL of His creation, not just for a privileged few! As Christians, it is up to us to care for our corner of the world so that everyone today and all future generations can see and enjoy God in all things that He created! Fr. Godfrey reminded us of this on Sunday. He also stated that the church does not recognize same-sex marriages, but that we, as the church, should embrace all mankind with the same love and respect that Christ has for us and to remember that a life without Christ is a life in crisis! God's blessings to all!

PRESBYTERIAN POTPOURRI by Les Grooms, pastor Augusta Presbyterian

Our food pantry is getting low. We need some help. I would ask the churches and individuals in Augusta to bring some donated non-perishable food to bring our food pantry up to where it should be. We need canned goods, pasta, pasta sauce, peanut butter, mac & cheese, dry beans, and cornbread mix. Donations can be brought to the church on Monday evening during the soup supper hours and any Sunday before church.

We spent Monday-Thursday at Ruggles Campground for the annual Market Place program. Over 150 school age children were present and over 100 adults were there to assist in the educational process.

A member of our congregation, Connie Thomas, is quite ill and is being taken care of in the Robertson County Nursing Facility.

We had forty-five in attendance for services on Sunday morning. Mary Murray was the liturgist, Susie Hargett led the singing, and Shelby England had children's church. We had a Gideon speaker who was part of the worship service.

We have installed two concrete benches in our Memorial Garden. We have a bird bath to install later. The Memorial Garden is looking good but we could use more flowers or bushes.

Don't forget our soup supper on Monday night and especially the first Monday of the month when we have breakfast food to offer. This has become quite popular.

Our Vacation Bible School will be held on July 25. This is an all-day learning experience and more information about V.B.S. will be posted later.

Mark on your calendar - July 8 for our monthly Bread Basket meal. This meal will consist of grilled meats, vegetables, salads, and desserts.

The last two Sundays of July Charlie Shoemaker, of Tollesboro, will be preaching. Charlie is now working on his doctoral degree from Asbury Theological Seminary. I understand that his mother, Donna Shoemaker, will be with him and will be singing a special each Sunday.

Great news for all children in the community K-5th grade! This July 20-23, youth minister Shane Hunt will be leading the 2015 Day Camp titled "All Through Time". You must register by Fri., July 10. Cost is $40 for regular attendees, $50 for everyone else and will include trips to Creation Museum, Blue Lick's State Park, Laser Tag, and Sunlite Pool with a theme focusing on Matthew 28:20 "I Will Be With You Always, Even Until The End Of The World". Sounds like a ton of fun!

During Sunday Service, Tom Melhorn spoke about all the great works Gideon International and the local branch are doing to spread God's Holy Word. Then Ron continued his "Soul Detox" series. This week's message was on Radioactive Relationships. Bad company corrupts good character. As Christians, we need to set boundaries by avoiding Godless chatter, such as the chronic critic, the controller, and the tempter.

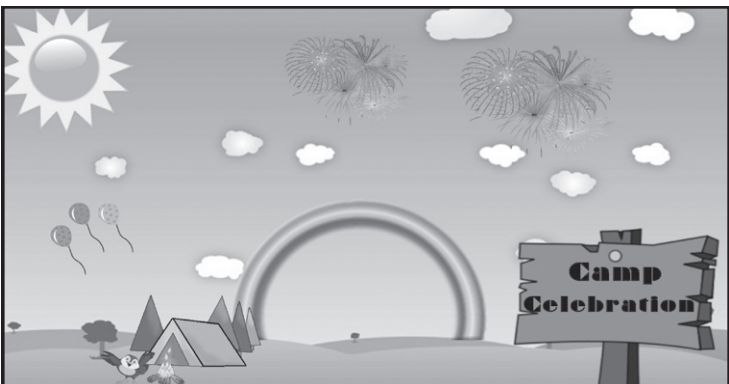

If you would like to join us as we learn to love like Jesus, stop on by or call Ron 606-782-2731, Shane 606-375-8419 or email: brooksvillechristianchurch@windstream.net.

State fire marshal reminds Kentuckians to ‘proceed with caution’ this Independence Day Pay attention to local ordinances

Kentuckians are encouraged to attend a community celebration this Fourth of July holiday.

Kentucky State Fire Marshal Bill Swope advises families to let the professionals entertain you.

"Setting off fireworks at home runs the risk of injury and may also run the risk of violating local ordinances and state law," Swope said. "Citizens should be aware of potential prohibitions against celebrating with fireworks as local governments can set their own fireworks ban."

If you insist on celebrating at home, Swope says that safety and supervision are keys to a successful, injury-free celebration.

Recommended safety tips from the National Council on Fireworks Safety follow:

- Obey all local laws regarding the use of fireworks.
- Know your fireworks; read the cautionary labels and performance descriptions before igniting.
- A responsible adult SHOULD supervise all firework activities. Never give fireworks to children.
- Alcohol and fireworks do not mix. Save your alcohol for after the show.
- Wear safety glasses when shooting fireworks.
- Light one firework at a time and then quickly move away.
- Use fireworks OUT-DOORS in a clear area; away from buildings and vehicles.

• Never relight a "dud" firework. Wait 20 minutes and then soak it in a bucket of water.

• Always have a bucket of water and charged water hose nearby.

• Never carry fireworks in your POCKET or shoot them into METAL or GLASS containers.

• Do not experiment with homemade fireworks.

• Dispose of spent fireworks by wetting them down and place in a metal trash can away from any building or combustible materials until the next day.

• Federal Aviation Administration regulations PROHIBIT the possession and transportation of fireworks in your checked baggage or carry-on luggage.

• Report illegal explosives, like M-80s and quarter sticks, to the fire or police department.

According to state law, people under 18 cannot sell fireworks unless supervised by a parent or guardian, people under 18 cannot purchase fireworks, fireworks cannot be used within 200 feet of a structure, vehicle or other person; and fireworks cannot be sold to anyone who is under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

In addition, local vendors and citizens are required to comply with any and all local ordinances that apply to the sale, purchase and use of fireworks.

HYPERACTIVITY OR IMPAIRED VISION?

As increasing numbers of diagnoses have made “attention deficit hyperactivity disorder” (ADHD) one of the most common childhood disorders, researchers have wondered if it is being over diagnosed or misdiagnosed. This question led to the finding that many of the academic and attention related behaviors associated with ADHD are also present in children suffering from a common eye-teaming problem.

“Convergence insufficiency” occurs when the eyes do not work well together to focus on a nearby object. As a result, convergence insufficiency makes printed words blur or seem to move on the page. Consequently, profound reading difficulties may produce hyperactivity that is misinterpreted as ADHD.

Children should be tested for convergence insufficiency before accepting an ADHD diagnosis. Children with uncorrected vision conditions or eye health problems face many barriers in life ... academically ... socially ... and athletically. Eye exams are truly a great way to monitor your health. For more information call us at KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE at 606.759.7883 or 800.658.7282. We're located at 1937 Old Main St., Suite 1, Old Washington, where we are currently accepting new patients. We specialize in “EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES.”

P.S. Normally, the eyes' ability to turn inward together (converge) provides “binocular vision,” which enables the brain to see a single, clearly defined object.

Protect yourself from weight-loss health fraud scams

Submitted by Shannon Smith, CEA for Family and Consumer Sciences

With nearly two-thirds of Americans considered overweight or obese, many of us would love a magic bullet to help us instantly shed a couple of pounds so we can look and feel better. Unfortunately, that magic potion or pill doesn't exist, despite the various marketing efforts you see online or on television that promote products as weight loss cure-alls.

These types of cure-all products have been around for hundreds of years and continue to attract people looking for an easy way to improve their overall health. The Food and Drug Administration considers any product to be fraudulent if it is misleadingly promoted as being effective against a disease or health condition but has not been scientifically proven safe and effective.

Not only do many of these products not work and are financially draining, but they also could cause serious health problems. Recently, the FDA found more than 100 weight-loss products, illegally marketed as dietary supplements, containing the ingredient sibutramine. This was the active ingredient in the prescription weight-loss drug Meridia, which was pulled from pharmacies in 2010 after studies showed it was associated with an increased risk of heart attack and stroke.

While it can be difficult to understand tricky marketing ploys, common marketing schemes or phrases that tend to send off warning signals include:

1. Personal testimonies
2. Products that offer quick fixes, such as “Lose 30 pounds in 30 days”

3. All natural
4. Products that claim to be miracle cures as a result of a scientific breakthrough, secret ingredient or new discovery. If these claims were true, they would be widely reported by the media and not in a paid-for advertisement.

The American College of Sports Medicine details the four best ways to improve your nutrition. These include:

1. Make small dietary changes to help you reach a healthy body weight.
2. Reduce your intake of saturated fat, trans fat, sugar and sodium.
3. Increase consumption of fruits, vegetables, whole grains, fish and dairy products.
4. Be a conscientious diner when eating out.

Always consult your physician before starting a weight loss program. More information on safe ways to lose weight is available at the Bracken County Cooperative Extension Service.

Educational programs of the Kentucky Cooperative Extension serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability, or national origin.

New Hotline Helps Kinship Relatives Caring for Children

Caregivers can get answers, support from toll-free phone line

The Cabinet for Health and Family Services (CHFS) has launched a Kinship Support Hotline to provide continued assistance to kinship relatives.

The hotline provides kinship relatives the chance to address program issues, talk about problems or ask questions. Local office staff will answer hotline calls.

The Kinship Support Hotline is 877-565-5608.

Kinship care -- the care of children by relatives or close family friends -- is coordinated by the CHFS Department for Community Based Services, the state's primary social services agency that has offices in all 120 counties.

DCBS Commissioner Teresa James said the hotline will provide a direct link to services for relative caregivers.

"We developed this hotline to support the many families who have opened their hearts and their homes to relative children," she said. "Our goal is to help relative caregivers get the services they need to keep these children with their families and prevent moves to out of home care. We are committed to helping these families on their journey."

When children cannot stay in their home because of abuse, neglect or dependency issues, kinship care can be an alternative to out of home care and can often help ease the trauma of separating from birth parents by providing a safe, nurturing environment with familiar caregivers.

Terry Brooks, executive director of Kentucky Youth Advocates, said that the hotline shows DCBS' strengthening support of families.

"DCBS' new Kinship Support Hotline gives grandparents, aunts, uncles and other relatives an important resource that will ultimately benefit the relative children they care for," he said. "Kinship care is vital as we ensure that every Kentucky kid has a family, and this new tool provides support for relatives who are parenting again."

The hotline is managed by DCBS central office staff in Frankfort, with liaisons in each of the state's nine DCBS regions. Relatives who have a DCBS protection and permanency worker actively involved with the child placed in their home will continue to receive assistance through the active worker.

The hotline is staffed 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Caregiving relatives can also email DCBSChildProtection@ky.gov for information, resources or support for their families.

The Kentucky Sheriffs’ Boys & Girls Ranch summer camping program is now open for their 40th consecutive year, serving boys and girls from throughout Kentucky. The camp runs throughout June and July, serving both boys & girls, alternately throughout the camp season.

Girls from Bracken County joined girls from Breckinridge, Carlisle, Cumberland, Daviess, LaRue, Marion, McCracken, Nelson, Ohio, Oldham, Owen, Pike, Robertson, Rockcastle, Scott, Warren and Wolfe counties during the week of June 21st.

The Boys & Girls Ranch is a non-profit organization, serving Kentucky’s youth through a summer camping program designed to build their self-esteem, while teaching them respect for themselves, others and law enforcement professionals. The camp is free to the campers, thanks to the dedication and support of our Sheriffs, members and contributors. The cost of serving the children is now well over $300.00 per week per child. With continued support from our contributors, we will continue to reach these most deserving youth.

“In addition to regular camp activities such as camp fires, arts & crafts, nature, sports, swimming, fishing, archery, and many others, the campers also enjoy race cars presented by local citizens, a fire prevention program by the Gilbertsville Fire Department, a drug awareness education program by the Marshall County Sheriffs’ Office, and the McCracken County Child Watch program,” Wagner said. “It will be a week filled with fun and learning for the campers. We hope the campers create a lifetime of memories during their stay, as well as learn the values of respect and many other life skills.”

For more information about the Boys & Girls Ranch or how you can invest in a child’s life and help build Kentucky’s youth, call the Ranch at 270-362-8660.

Cummins awarded National Precast Concrete Association scholarship

Growing up on a farm, Steven Cummins, a construction management student who will attend Eastern Kentucky University this fall, learned all about working with his hands. But rather than tending to cattle and driving tractors, he hopes to work as a project manager or cost estimator after he graduates. His ultimate goal is to become a superintendent or business owner.

Cummins is one of six students awarded this year with a scholarship from the National Precast Concrete Association Foundation.

Cummins currently attends Maysville Community & Technical College in Kentucky, where he has completed basic coursework before entering ECU's construction management program. After his father underwent emergency surgery, he chose to stay at home to assist with the family farm business, which played a role in his decision to complete initial coursework at MCTC.

Cummins has worked for Straight Edge Construction for several years, applying the same level of dedication to the company as he does to his family farm. His work entails constructing forms, finishing concrete and operating a variety of excavation equipment.

Recently, Cummins has taken an interest in jointed precast concrete pavement, which he believes provides an excellent solution for the U.S.'s aging infrastructure system.

"JPrCP helps relieve construction delays, makes road repairs more efficient and contributes to a safer construction site," he said. "This type of technology is what I would bring to my company as I continue my education."

Cummins is the son of Phillip and Anna Cummins of Brooksville.

"More options for you. More exposure for your property."

Howdy Folks! Americans across the country and around the world will be celebrating the birthday of this great United States on Saturday as 4th of July parades, cookouts, reunions and fireworks will be on the day's agenda! Unfortunately, this week has rain written all over it and Saturday is included in that scenario! Most homes and businesses display the American flag as a symbol of their patriotism and dedication to these United States on July 4, but did you ever wonder about the choice of colors for Old Glory? A quick Google Search revealed that the color of red indicates hardiness and valor; white symbolizes purity and innocence and blue represents vigilance, perseverance and justice. In 1776, this flag represented 2.5 million citizens and today there are an estimated 321,180,200 folks who live under these colors! Millions of men and women have died defending this flag and the freedoms afforded the citizens of these United States of America but ironically, those freedoms even extend to burning the flag in protest! There are many laws and regulations on the books now that actually oppose the Commandments of God so this Fourth of July, let us start the day with a prayer for our leaders and for peace and justice to once again govern all citizens of the United States of America!

With the increased population, we must do all we can to care for the environment to ensure that future generations will have the quality of life that we enjoy. That means as responsible citizens of the earth, we need to exercise the good habits of recycling, reusing and reducing and to instill in our children and grandchildren these very necessary components to a healthy environment. Recently, we have touched briefly on the ill effects of burning trash as a means of disposal. We cannot emphasize enough how harmful it is to all of God's creation to rely on burning to get rid of what you no longer want. Plastics release cancer causing minute particles into the air which fall back to earth to settle on vegetation and to be inhaled by humans and animals. The toxic wastes in the ashes and atmosphere from a burn barrel of a family of four is equivalent to the pollution caused by an entire municipal power plant! Children are especially vulnerable because they breathe more rapidly than adults and their lungs are still developing. Inhalation of these toxic pollutants can and do cause breathing and respiratory problems! When plants that are laden with this substance are eaten by humans and by the animals that humans eat, the toxicity level increases with each passing year! Please do not engage in the illegal activity of burning trash and thus protect yourself, your family, all creatures great and small and all vegetation from this negative action!

A few months back we had stated that we were collecting plastic grocery bags so that they could be crocheted into mats for homeless veterans. Our contact person told us that they have been overwhelmed and at this time can no longer accept any more bags. If you have a supply of plastic bags, please drop them off in the designated boxes at Kroger's, Lowe's and Walmart in Maysville. We have been unsuccessful in our efforts to contact a Veteran's Representative who has information on this project, but we will keep trying! Our sincerest appreciation to everyone who works in tandem with nature to protect and preserve through RECYCLING, REUSING and REDUCING to keep God's earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seein' you – Bin & Bug.

FSA County Committee Nomination Period in Bracken, Mason and Robertson County Now Open

Bracken/Mason/Robertson County USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director CED Chuck Whitehead, announced that the nomination period for local FSA county committees began on June 15, 2015. Nomination forms must be postmarked or received in the Bracken/Mason/Robertson County FSA Office by close of business on Aug. 3, 2015.

"County Committees are unique to FSA and allow producers to have a voice on federal farm program implementation at the local level," said CED Whitehead.

To be eligible to serve on the FSA county committee, a person must participate or cooperate in an agency administered program, be eligible to vote in a county committee election and reside in the Local Administrative Area (LAA) where they are nominated.

This year, nominations and elections will be held in LAA 2, 4 and 7, which includes, Brooksville, Willow, Powersville, Milford, May's Lick, Sardis, Shannon, Mt. Olivet, Kentontown.

Producers may nominate themselves or others as candidates. Organizations representing minority and women farmers and ranchers may also nominate candidates. To become a nominee, eligible individuals must sign form FSA-669A. The form and more information about county committee elections is available online at: www.fsa.usda.gov/elections.

fsa.usda.gov/elections.

Elected county committee members serve a three-year term and are responsible for making decisions on FSA disaster, conservation, commodity and price support programs, as well as other important federal farm program issues. County committees consist of three to 11 members.

"It is important that county committees are comprised of members who fairly represent the diverse demographics of production agriculture for their community," said CED Whitehead. "All producers, including women, minority and beginning farmers and ranchers are encouraged to participate in the nomination and election process."

FSA will mail election ballots to eligible voters beginning Nov. 9. Ballots are due back in the Bracken/Mason/Robertson County Office by mail or in person no later than Dec. 7, 2015. All newly elected county committee members and alternates will take office January 1, 2016.

"Nominating potential county committee members, voting for candidates and serving on the committees are truly services to your community and the agriculture industry," said CED Whitehead. "County Committee members make important decisions on how federal farm programs are administered locally to best serve local needs and interests."

For more information about county committees, please contact the Bracken/Mason/Robertson County FSA office at (606) 759-5763 or visit www.fsa.usda.gov/elections.

Sports in Kentucky

by Bob Watkins

Rebel flag, 5-white-soldier-type-characters mascot, stir enlightened conversation, right?

A pick-up truck swung smartly across two lanes into a service station in Hardin County. Planted firmly in its bed, a huge flag, star-and-bars.

All the way to Kentucky, tragedy in Charleston, South Carolina touches our lives one way or another. That state’s governor Nikki Haley’s idea to move the rebel flag from capital grounds in Columbia into a museum is reasonable and serves to elevate discussion of racial strife that continues to bedevil Americans.

In Kentucky, removal of Jefferson Davis’ statue from our state capital became instant political correctness. More, it served to educate us to wonder (at least), “how did the president of Confederacy merit a statue in Frankfort in the first place? Surely not because he was born in Fairview, Kentucky. His family moved to Mississippi when Davis was a tyke. He became a senator for the Magnolia State and is buried near Richmond, Virginia.

Reasonable facts and thoughts all, to provoke enlightened conversation, right?

But then came the slope, down from noble and sublime idealism to ridiculous and “can you believe this?” It began in Washington D.C., (where else?). Nevada senator Harry Reid harangued over South Carolina’s tragedy, then opened Pandora’s box, said University of Nevada-Las Vegas board of regents ought change its sports nickname Runnin’ Rebels.

Trickle down effect did not spare the Bluegrass State. Maybe a slow day in sports made Reid’s knee-jerk logic logical. A sports writer discovered seven Kentucky high schools have the nickname Rebels and five of them “use a white, soldier-type character in their official athletics logo.”

Not exactly a Woodward and Bernstein moment, but “five-white-soldier-type-characters” was enough to rattle the cage at KHSAA headquarters and produce a community service journalistic gem from Floyd County Schools superintendent Henry Webb about the Confederate flag.

“I’ve asked the school to stop all use of that,” he told the Lexington Herald-Leader. “So all of that will be gone. ... Going forward we may have conversations about the actual Rebels mascot but at this point we have not.”

Well and good. But giving Harry Reid knee-jerkery relevance in Kentucky even on a slow day in sports, gives undue attention to rebel imagery and more, begs for backlash. Like a rebel flag in back of a pickup truck.

In the end, the most sensible perspective came from Julian Tackett. The KHSAA commissioner moved us to wonder if original selection of high school mascot had anything to do with The Confederate South “... or is there some history there that people don’t know about? I think it’s good for everybody to look into stuff.” Amen.

Bracken XC prepares for upcoming season by attending running camp

Several members of the Bracken County high school and middle school Cross Country teams attended a summer running camp Monday, June 22 through Wednesday, June 24th. The team travelled to Woodson Bend Resort near Somerset, KY to work on individual and team goals for the upcoming season. While there, they worked out and ran twice daily, while also learning about good nutrition and taking time out for fun and relaxation.
